Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Montpelier, Vt. — "We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would blot. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me." — Mrs. MARY GAUTHIER 21 Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

An Honest Dependable Medicine

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

ADVANCE IN TEMPERANCE THOUGHT.

The following paper was read at a recent meeting of the Barton W. C. T. U. by the author.

The advance in thought in regard to temperance can be illustrated best perhaps by this little sketch taken from the Union Signal. "Twenty years ago a company of white ribboners from all parts of the nation met in Atlanta for a national convention and it is said by some of the number that the hostilities of the city where they stopped not only showed some little unfriendliness but made them feel that their presence was unwelcome. On the evening of Nov. 11, 1914 when the official train from Chicago, carrying two hundred delegates, reached Atlanta, it was welcomed by one of the city's finest bands, and the general officers and delegates were taken in luxurious automobiles to their places of entertainment in some of the finest hotels in the city, a drum and baggie corps preceding them." I believe one of the most important factors entering into this change is the education of the people in regard to the effects of alcohol. People have begun to THINK a very good sign. Get the people to think and then "goodby" to the liquor traffic. Much advance has been made by bringing before the masses the evils of intemperance. There never was a time when we did not know of the hideous work the liquor traffic did. We were not unmindful of the horrors caused by drink but it remained for the W. C. T. U. by constant agitation, organization, and education to get at the root of the matter, and science today lends her voice in declaring that alcohol is the great enemy of humanity, able to destroy brain, tissue, nerves and muscle. We read that the brewers have no use for the physiology, which the law secured by the W. C. T. U. requires to be taught in the public schools, nor do they approve of the reformation geography which is so rapidly making the map all white.

When the children in the public schools are taught the effects of tobacco and alcohol on the body, it does more good than we imagine. Newspapers have been a great factor in the advance of the temperance thought. The papers have come to realize that our organization is a live maker of live news and they are willing to print W. C. T. U. news and movements.

The public is deeply indebted to this organization for its educative work against alcohol, as a medicine. It took courage to attack alcohol in its citadel of medicine, but that citadel is now nearly conquered. The public have been greatly benefited in health and in pocket by this agitation against harmful patent medicines. Many of the better class drug stores now refuse to sell habit-forming drugs and some will not sell alcoholic liquors even on prescription. It was the W. C. T. U. which began the publicity campaign against the drug "dopes" in soft drinks, which was later taken up by the bureau of chemistry in Washington.

Young men are led to realize that business men want the young man who does not drink. This shows the boys that if they wish to succeed in life, they must let intoxicants alone. We hear it said that the present war has given the greatest blow to the drink habit that the world has ever known. While empires are tottering, statesmen and people are beginning to realize the dangers of alcohol and all nations are urging total abstinence for their soldiers. William Jennings Bryan says, "If the soldier must give up alcohol because it interferes with his efficiency, why should not the civilian promote his efficiency by giving it up?"

There is an old saying which says that "the man who succeeds in life and prohibition has succeeded in all the states that have the prohibition laws. Kansas for instance, stands far in advance of Missouri, which has many more natural advantages. Prohibition has proven a blessing to West Virginia. When crime and drunkenness are reduced to a minimum and jails are almost empty in states where prohibition has been tried, it goes a good way toward making thoughtful men and women see that what we want is a "map all white." (That time will come when the women have the ballot.)

This is God's work and God's side speaks "Victory."

If we have boys of our own we cannot help feeling an interest in this great work, and any way there may be as the little poem says

Somebody's boy is in the shelter of home,
Away from the siles of the home,
Far from a mother's protection
And weary and sad and alone
There are pitfalls at every corner
Awaiting his soul to destroy.
O voter, speak out at election
And help to save somebody's boy.

Somebody's boy may be your boy
His eyes just the same shade of blue;
Some day your tears may be falling—
The rum shops won't care if they do.
Tis theirs to ruin and trample;
To crush out all hope and all joy.
Won't you go to the polls at election
And vote to save somebody's boy?
—Mrs. Jennings.

A Portrait.

When he can't get front seats at the theater he grows about the box office discrimination: when he can be decided not to take them after all—for the show can't be a good one, or they would have been gone long ago. We all know the complete pessimist. He is almost as depressing as the professional optimist.—Collier's Weekly.

No Fiction.

It was a clerk in a Detroit bookstore of whom a prim matron demanded a book for her son. "No fiction, please," she explained, "but absolute, literal truth, without unnecessary verbiage or absurdly fanciful pictures."

"Well, madam!" The bookseller paused, his eye running over his shelves; then, with a flash of inspiration, he took down a volume. "I should think this might meet your requirements," he said, and he handed her a popular geometry.—Exchange.

Our Farmers..

Does It Pay to Raise Good Poultry?

C. E. Sisco of Barton sent in to a commission house in Boston about 40 chickens which averaged nearly five pounds apiece, for which he received 22 cents per pound dressed. This was the week before Thanksgiving. The week before Christmas S. B. Nelson sent to the same house about 20 chickens which averaged four and three-quarters pounds, for which he received 21 cents per pound. Of course the corn and express had to come out of that which was about one and one-half cents a pound. The poultry was not drawn, simply dry picked with heads and feet on. A little extra care in picking and tramping the head in a little paper sack and washing the feet nice and clean, all helps to bring the highest price.

The Maple Sugar Makers.

The officers elected by the Vermont Maple Sugar Makers' association, whose annual meeting was held in Montpelier last week, are as follows: President, A. A. Carleton of West Newbury; secretary, H. B. Chapin of Middlesex; vice-presidents, Wm. E. York of West Lincoln and A. M. Jenne of Randolph; treasurer, Homer W. Vail of Randolph; auditor, P. B. Northrop of Addison. The judges on the maple products exhibited at the meeting were Prof. C. H. Jones, chemist at the experiment station, Burlington, Prof. J. F. Snell of McDonald college, Montreal and Victor I. Spear of Randolph. They had a big job on their hands and the awards of prizes were not announced until late in the afternoon. The banquet was largely attended. Lieutenant Governor Darling presided as toastmaster and Gov. Gates was one of the speakers.

Vermont Leads in Cows.

According to a live stock report for the New England states, just issued Vermont leads the other states of the group in the number of milk cows. Vermont had 268,000 January 1, which were valued at $52 a head. This is compared with 265,000 in 1910, valued at $34.20 a head. Vermont had 28,000 horses valued at $131 a head as compared with 28,000 valued at $106 a head in 1910. The list of "Other Cattle" shows 167,000 animals valued at $23.10 a head. This is compared with 165,000 in 1910 valued at $14.40 a head. Sheep raising showed a falling off from 119,000 in 1910 to 105,000 January 1, but the value a head had risen from $4.00 to $5.10. The swine list shows a total of 108,000. January 1, which was a good sized increase as the report for 1910 showed 95,000. The value this year was $13 a head as compared with $10 in 1910.

Farmer's Week Program.

The Seventh Annual Vermont Farmers' Week will be held at the University of Vermont, Feb. 22 to 28. The program is a big one, and the bids fair to be bigger, busier and better than ever before, for it will be a three-day affair and deal with: (1) Agriculture; (2) Home Economics; (3) Highway Work.

The Simon-pure farmers' week will be given up to addresses, demonstrations and laboratory work in agriculture for five days. Two score lecturers and demonstrators will take part. 2. The home economic section will be in session for either two or three days. Several women lecturers and demonstrators will discuss various phases of the home maker's problems. 3. The college of engineering will hold a two-days' session dealing with road construction and particularly with road materials. Addresses, demonstrations and laboratory work will be given. The state highway commissioner will collaborate. A state meeting of the county highway commissioners will be held in conjunction with this session. Programs will be in print by February 1, and may be secured of the director of the extension service, Morrill Hall, Burlington, Vermont.

The State Dairymen Meet.

The annual meeting of the Vermont State Dairymen's association held at Burlington the week of Jan. 11, scored an attendance of 1200, the largest on record. The following officers were elected: President, J. G. Turnbull of Orleans; vice-presidents, H. K. Brooks of St. Albans and O. L. Martin of Plainfield; secretary, F. E. Rickford of Bradford; treasurer, M. A. Adams of Derby; auditor, F. L. Davis of Hartford. The reports of the treasurer showed total receipts in the general fund during the year of $1,786.07 and expenditures of $1,284.20, leaving a balance of $501.87 for the year. The expenses of the premium were $551.25, with money received from the rent of space in hall and sale of butter and cheese amounting to 417.60, $133.65 being taken from the general fund to make this balance. The membership dues of $200 for the year do not show the actual number of members in the association, as there are over 100, a large number being life members. The dues per year are $1 and for life membership $10. The winners in the butter tests were announced as follows: Winner of the gold medal and dairy sweepstakes cup, Geo. Gibbs of Groton with a score of 97.3; winner of the creamery sweepstakes cup, John Bond of East Montpelier with a score of 97.2. The two scores were so near together that it took the judge some time to make a decision in favor of the winner. Other winners and the scores and addresses, principally on subjects of interest to dairymen, were given by a large number of speakers during the three days' session. Over 250 attended the banquet Thursday evening. Judge Frank L. Fish of Vergennes was toastmaster. The principal speakers were Gov. Chas. W. Gates, Congressman-elect Porter H. Dale of Island Pond, and Superintendent of Education Mason S. Stone of Montpelier.

THIS IS A BAD MONTH

The indoor life of winter, with lack of outdoor exercise, puts a heavy load on the kidneys. Nearly everybody suffers from rheumatism, backache, pain in sides and back, kidney and bladder ailments. A backache may not mean anything serious, but it certainly does not mean anything good. It's better to be on the safe side and take Foley's Kidney Pills, strengthen and invigorate the kidneys and help them to do their work. They help rid the blood of acids and poisons.

THE CHURCH AS A SOCIAL CENTER

A Broader Sphere for Religion—New Field for the Rural Church.

By Peter Radford
Lecturer National Farmers' Union

The social duty of the rural church is as much a part of its obligations as its spiritual side. In expressing its social interest, the modern rural church does not hesitate to claim that it is expressing a true religious instinct and the old-time idea that the social instincts should be starved while the spiritual nature was overfed with solid theological food, is fast giving way to a broader interpretation of the functions of true religion. We take our place in the succession of those who have sought to make the world a fit habitation for the children of man when we seek to study and understand the social duty of the rural church. The true christian religion is essentially social—its tenets of faith being love and brotherhood and fellowship. While following after righteousness, the church must challenge and seek to reform that social order in which moral life is expressed. While cherishing ideals of service, the rural church which attains the fullest measure of success is that which enriches as many lives as it can touch, and in no way can the church come in as close contact with its members as through the avenue of social functions.

The country town and the rural community need a social center. The church need offer no apology for its ambition to fill this need in the community, if an understanding of its mission brings this purpose into clear consciousness. The structure of a rural community is exceedingly complex; it contains many social groups, each of which has its own center, but there are many localities which have but one church and although such a church cannot command the interest of all the people, it is relieved from the embarrassment of religiously divided communities.

Social Needs Imperative.

The average country boy and girl have very little opportunity for real enjoyment, and have, as a rule, a vague conception of the meaning of pleasure and recreation. It is to fill this void in the lives of country youth that the rural church has risen to the necessity of providing entertainment, as well as instruction, to its membership among the young. The children and young people of the church should meet when religion is not even mentioned. It has been found safest for them to meet frequently under the direction and care of the church. To send them into the world with no social training exposes them to grave perils and to try to keep them out of the world with no social privileges is sheer folly. There is a social nature to both old and young, but the social requirements of the young are imperative. The church must provide directly or indirectly some modern equivalent for the husking bee, the quilting bee and the singing schools of the old days. In one way or another the social instincts of our young people must have opportunity for expression, which may take the form of clubs, parties, picnics or other forms of amusement. One thing is certain, and that is that the church cannot take away the dance, the card party and the theatre unless it can offer in its place a satisfying substitute in the form of more pleasing recreation.

Universal Instinct for Play.

In providing for enjoyment the church uses one of the greatest methods by which human society has developed. Association is never secure until it is pleasurable; in play the instinctive aversion of one person for another is overcome and the social mood is fostered. Play is the chief educational agency in rural communities and in the play-day of human childhood social sympathy and social habits are evolved. As individuals come together in social gatherings, their viewpoint is broadened, their ideals are lifted and finally they constitute a cultured and refined society. It is plain, therefore, that the church which aims at a perfected society must use in a refined and exalted way the essential factors in social evolution and must avail itself of the universal instinct for play. If the church surrounds itself with social functions which appeal to the young among its membership, it will fill a large part of the lamentable gap in rural pleasures and will reap the richest reward by promoting a higher and better type of manhood and womanhood.

A new case of poliomyelitis has been reported to the state board of health, Donald Teachout, a nine-year-old boy at Essex Junction. After a five days' course one limb is paralyzed. This is an exceptional case, owing to the fact that poliomyelitis in this state is prevalent during the month of August and September and an almost unheard of disease at this time of year. The boy was slightly ill Sunday, but Monday morning went to school as usual, as it was not known that he was afflicted with infantile paralysis. The 24 children in the grade which he attends were therefore exposed.

The Friends You Are Fondest of.

In the February American Magazine James Montgomery Flagg, the famous wit and artist, does an amusing piece in words and pictures entitled, "The High Cost of Friends," in the course of which he tells as follows the difference between your dear friends and the ones you are much less fond of: "The friends you are fond of are always the kind that rarely call you up or go out of their way to see you or be in your company. They love you when they are with you, but you have to do all the going and coming. When you reproach them with not 'phoning you or letting you know they have come in town they 'have been so busy!' Did you ever know it to fail? And the ones you are much less fond of? They are the kind that rarely call you up and ask you to dinner and send you tickets and try to borrow money from you and act just the way you would prefer your dearest friends to do!"

"Have used your Liniment very successfully in a case of rheumatism, and always have a bottle on hand in case of a cold or sore throat. I wish to say I think it one of the best of household remedies. I would not have used it only it was recommended to me by a friend of mine who, I wish to say, is one of the best boosters for your Liniment I ever saw."—J. W. Fuller, Denver, Col.
